Seven Bables at a Birth.

The Louisville Courier Journal printed a special telegram, some days ago, in which it was stated a woman living in Jackson county bad given birth to seven girl babies. Of ocurse those who read the statement considered it a newspaper joke, and dismissed it without further thought. I confess that when I wrote the telegram making the sartling soncuterment that I did so with many misgislogs as to its irnib. Since then, however, I have been convinced that I wrote wiser than I knew. F.om a genileman who has just arrived in this ci y from the neighborhood where this remarkatie woman resides, in Jackson county, I lears the following fac s. I am under promise to suppress nem:s, as the lu band is pecu iarly sensitive on the suli ot.

About two weeks since, the gentleman states, he was appealed to about 11 o'clock at night to go for a physican for Mrs. B. He consented to do so, and, having presented medicine once himself, accompanied the physicism, on his invitation, to the house. When they errord, about midnight, Mrs B. was in labor, and preparations were immediately made to deliver ner. Without g iog ioto details, it is sufficient to relate that the child was boro, tu riogularly enough the pairs of labor continued. An examination convinced the physician that there were two, instead of one, and the woman was soon delivered of the second e id, both gils. Convinced of course, that there was no further need of his assistance, the physician gave certain directions as to the care of both mother and children, and prepared to take his leave. Before reaching his horse, however, at the gete, he was recalled and delivered the woman of anoth girl baby. Again the physician took his leave, and again he was recalled, bringing to light another girl baby. This was cons.d. ered remarkable, and the possician was greatly puzz'ed over the matter. He, however, congratulated the husband on his good firtune and departed for home. He had not gone more than a balf mite before he was overtaken by he excited busbend of the woman, who in breathiess hase informed him that there was sill acorbor child to be born. Historing back. the physician arrived in time to sit in delivering the wawaa of her fifth child. The physiien was then prevailed on by the husband and ta her to stay during the remainder of the ight. He was not slow to accept the invitation, and sat down to await developments. In the course of fifteen or twooty micutes he was again called to the bedeide of the woman, and very sono the six:h child was breathing the prestb of life. Marning dawned, and the dooor took his leave. Having had no sicep darng the tight he threw biquelf across the bed. to his arrival at home, and was soon sound wheep. Abou 8 o'click he was accused by his wife, who stated that Mr. B was at this gate. and wanted to see him immediately, "Wast's the matter non?' askel the dio-

The doctor remained about the premises duti g the rest of the day, but his services were not again needed. The gentleman who made the above statement, and it is given almost in his exact words, says he has seen the seven babies several times. and, while not large, we g ing from four to fire penads each, they appear to be healthy, well developed children. The occurrence has created considerable excitement in the neighborhood. and the people for miles around flick to see the woman and her basies. The nusbind is de scribed as being small, in fact, expeedingly thin, while the wife is said to be a rong and healthy. The physicians here are consideradly excited over the affair, and some are talking of paying the family a visit. A m s clayu ar feature of the chil ireo is, thes all of them have blue eyes. and so clessly resemble each other that it is hard to tell "wrigh from t'other."-Louisville

Courier Journal,

A WILD STEER IN THE STREETS. - A wild Texan steer escaped into the New York streets a morning or two ago and created much excitement for a while. The steer had not proceeded for before he was the recipient of a number of missiles in the shape of clubs, stones and bullets, either of which seemed to have but little effect and only tenced to infuriate the animal all the more. His speed increased as the mob was strengthened by additional forces and he ran pellated down the averus with his pursuers close at hand. Up streets and down avenues he was riven, every; once in a while being struck by come we soon, tu: apparently with but little avenue and Thirtieth street an imm nase crawd or people were following close at hand and had most surrounded the maddened brute, when the latter turned again and rushed upon an inoffensive horse that was standing on the corner. and, butting him with his horns, threw the horse o the street, injuring him severely. At this moment a determined crowd of citizens had closed in on the infurinted steer and began a hand to hand onslau, h: Knives pistols and clubs were freely used, and in a couple of minutes the animal, weakened from the loss of blood, fell to the street a quivering mass. Fortunately no serious injury was i flicted by the runaway, who kept to the middle of the street in
